Charlotte was very friendly, even though she appeared to be very harassed by city problems. Ran into Jack Kearney and I introduced myself. He was very friendly; said I was doing a good job for the building; and he inquired about RTP. Kearney used to work with John Swundelhurst at Hendrick's.

CARBONDALE HISTORICAL SOCIETY recognized the achievements of Mason Essi, 27 Franklin Street, (left), and John Kalimkiewicz, (right), at the society's annual meeting and Christmas party on December 20. During the summer months, the two men prepared video tape documentaries on the history of Carbondale City Hall and the accomplishments of the Carbondale Historical Society.

"Klimkiewicz" is the correct spelling of John's name; plus write it down correctly & as the ever in the typewriter's, I copy.

Council extends '83 budget to meet payroll, estimates debt at $418,000

By MIKE PETROVSKY
Carbondale City Council unanimously approved an emergency resolution to extend the city's 1983 budget until January 9. The resolution freezes all city expenditures with the exception of salaries and wages until the 1984 budget is adopted. The action was in accordance with a letter from Mayor Charlotte Moro on January 5, which stated their salary would be paid after the emergency resolution was passed.

Moro's letter also stated the city would not extend the 1983 budget for 30 days. The reason for the emergency resolution is to give the city time to prepare the 1984 budget which would not attempt to pay off the huge debt which the mayor also said would be paid by the city. The Finance Director, John Kearney, revealed at Monday's meeting that, according to his most recent figures, the city is in debt $418,253.76. The mayor, who was also in attendance at Monday's meeting, added the debt examining all the firms who submitted bids for the job. The city wants to make sure the quality of past audits they have done for the city and because their bid of $10,500 - which was $4,000 more than the next highest bid - was not competitive. One of the audit was completed and another firm offered the same guarantee. In other business the council, which was also in attendance, voted unanimously to appoint Michael Tolero as council president and councilman Albert Calzola as vice president. Councilman Frank Greco Jr. moved against Tolero's reappointment. Tolero introduced a resolution by councilman Greco to amend the city Administrative Code to allow the mayor to appoint an attorney to assist the Zoning Hearing Board. The city's Zoning Hearing Board, who assisted the city in the project, came in the form of an $8,000 grant from the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission. The council received a round of applause from the audience after making his announcement. The council also discussed the city's financial situation and the need for more money to repair the meters and sidewalks.
